Apply hosting Tojjar Booths

Definition:

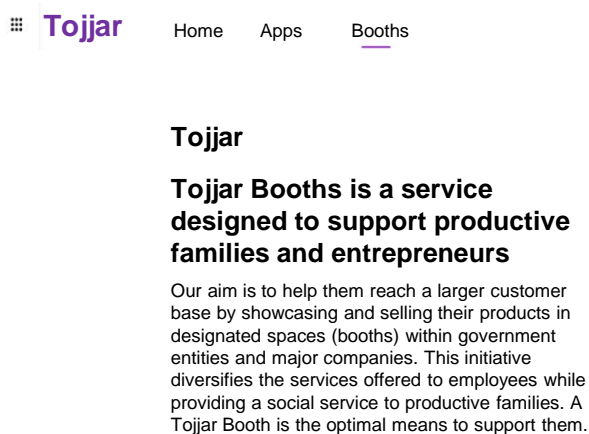

It is an e-service provided by the Human Resources Development Fund that allows beneficiaries from government entities and large companies to request the hosting of Booths within their premises without the need to visit the entity

Conditions:

- Sign the form
- Provide an appropriate location

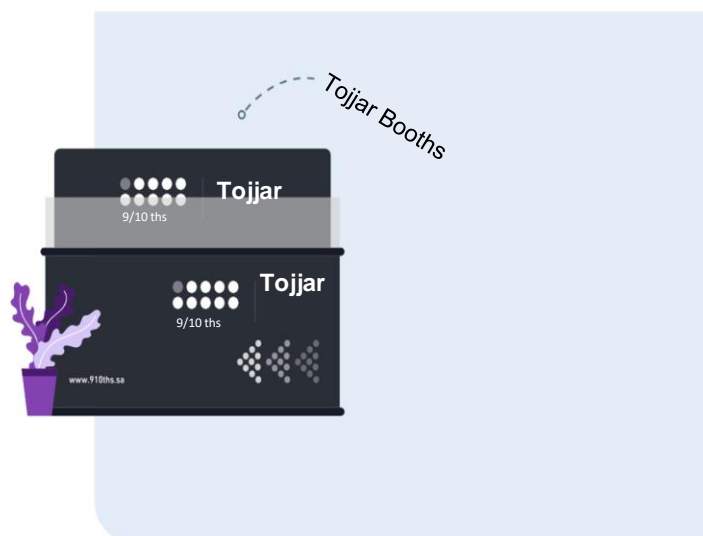

Steps to Apply for the Service:

- Apply through the website

The screenshot shows the Tojjar website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with a hamburger menu icon, the 'Tojjar' logo, and links for 'Home', 'Apps', and 'Booths'. The 'Booths' link is underlined. Below the navigation bar, the heading 'Tojjar' is followed by a bold statement: 'Tojjar Booths is a service designed to support productive families and entrepreneurs'. A paragraph below explains the service's aim: 'Our aim is to help them reach a larger customer base by showcasing and selling their products in designated spaces (booths) within government entities and major companies. This initiative diversifies the services offered to employees while providing a social service to productive families. A Tojjar Booth is the optimal means to support them.'
